A so-called High Frequency Technical Institute is being erected on a site of 4 square kilometers at Jilmenau, Thuringia, under the general direction of Professor Stamm of Zeiss Jena. Nuclear research work is already being carried out here. A two million volt column is being erected at the present time. The institute has available heavy water supplied by the Kombinat Böhlen of Leipzig. Isotopes are delivered from the Soviet Union. It is reported that a pile is also planned in the institute grounds. Further details are not available at present.
